As we enter the Fall sitting of the House of Commons, the Liberals continue to trend up on the Nanos Party Power Index largely on strengthening scores among the voters under 30 as well as those between the ages of 40 and 49.

The Liberals stand at 59 points out of 100 (a new 12-month high), followed by the NDP at 49 points, the Conservatives at 48 points, the Green Party at 30 points and the BQ at 25 points (QC only). Much of the recent gains for the Liberals have been in Ontario, BC and among Canadians under 30 years of age.

Liberal accessible voters are now at 60 per cent (a new 12-month high). Forty-six per cent of Canadians would consider voting NDP, 40 per cent would consider voting for the Conservatives while 27 per cent of Canadians would consider voting for the Green Party.
